

2022 Bloomberg Law Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Framework

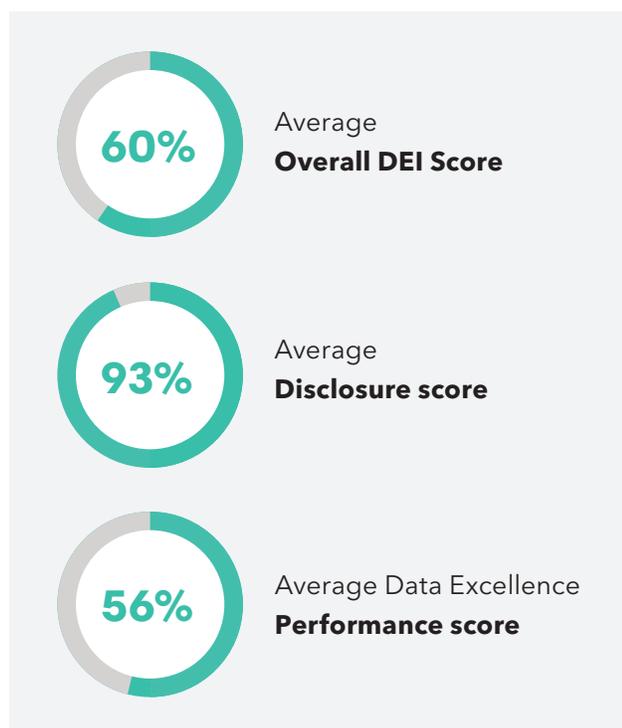

The Bloomberg Law Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) Framework is a listing of law firms that meet or exceed an established threshold of diversity, equity, and inclusion in their firm. Standardized disclosure of diversity-related data allows firms to attract and retain talent, and also allows companies looking to procure legal services to easily compare law firms from a supplier diversity standpoint.

Overall Scores

Firms are assigned a Bloomberg Law DEI Score based on data disclosed for the metrics defined in the DEI Framework. The DEI Score measures both the level of disclosure of diversity-related metrics, as well as distinguished performance against standards in each of the six pillar areas, weighted and combined into an overall performance score.

The 2022 Framework is made up of 43 law firms from across the United States, ranging in size from under 10 to over 2,000 attorneys. Bloomberg Law's DEI Framework provides a platform for standardizing law firm diversity metrics, allowing firms to provide their data in one comprehensive Data Collection Instrument, and corporations to quickly access a DEI Framework Listing of firms that meeting or exceed an established threshold of diversity, equity, and inclusion.

The Bloomberg Law DEI Framework is open to U.S. based law firms. Firms had three months to gather and submit their data using the Data Collection Instrument via secure on-line survey.

DEI Pillar Scores

The DEI Scores measure distinguished performance against standards in each of the six pillar areas. Each is measured from 0-100%, with 100% being a perfect score. Firms only earn points for exceeding overall industry averages (according to ABA and NALP industry reports)*, so anything over 0% represents exceeding averages in at least one metric and 100% represents exceeding averages on every metric.

Methodology

The scoring for the six pillar areas represents 90% of the total DEI Score (the remaining 10% is based on Disclosure). The pillars of Marketing and Diversity & Inclusion in the Community are combined, as these are smaller survey sections. Each pillar, or combination of pillars, receives its own score.

The pillar scores are weighted to determine 90% of the full DEI score as follows:

25% = Recruitment & Retention

25% = Leadership & Talent Pipeline

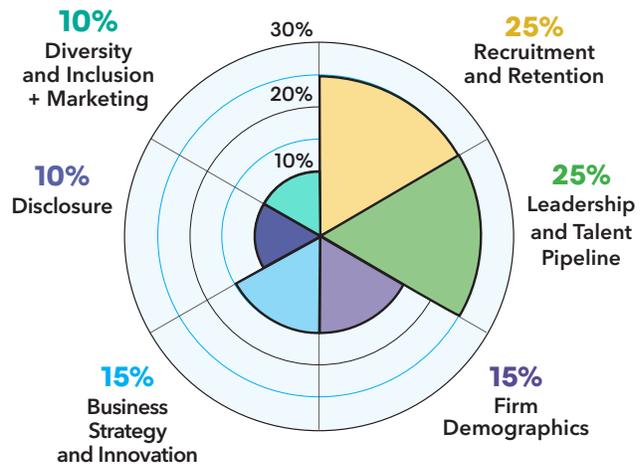

15% = Business Strategy & Innovation

15% = Firm Demographics

10% = Diversity & Inclusion + Marketing

10% = Disclosure

How Pillars are Weighted to Determine DEI Score

Industry Demographics

The firms participating tend to meet or exceed industry averages for many diversity metrics.

83% of companies have a Chief Diversity Officer (or equivalent)

49% of firms say that Practice Group Leaders have clear diversity and inclusion goals included as part of their annual performance review

66% of firms mandate and monitor that minority and women attorneys have equal access to client, quality work assignments, committee appointments, marketing efforts, and firm events

91% of firms have a public statement regarding their commitment to diversity and inclusion

60% of firms tie a component of partner compensation to diversity efforts

40% conducted a pay audit in 2021

70% of firms require diversity within a pool of candidates for management and leadership roles (and of those, an average of 25% percent of slated candidates must be diverse)

30% of firms shared a specific, time-bound action plan to increase the representation of diverse groups in leadership positions

Female

Approximately half of all associates are women, and they account for just over one out of every four partners.

Firm Management

Most firms are publicly stating their commitment to diversity and inclusion, but fewer have a specific plan to increase diversity within their leadership or tie components of compensation to diversity efforts.

89% of the top management at law firms are Caucasian.

79% of the top management at law firms are male.

of law offices (33.2%) are led by attorneys other than white men.

Policies and Benefits

Benefits and policies can be useful ways of both attracting and retaining diverse talent. Nearly all firms offer standard medical, dental vision, and paid primary parental leave. Other types of leave, flexibility and benefits are less common.

91%

employees who took primary parental leave in 2021 returned to work

87%

of employees who took primary parental leave were female

86%

of employees who took secondary parental leave were male

77%

law firms that offer secondary parental leave

94%

firms that offer remote work and telecommuting options

89%

firms that offer employees alternative billing targets

77%

firms that offer flextime (adjustable work days/hours) to all employees'

13.1

average number of weeks of fully paid parental leave offered

HR and Engagement

Groups with an Employee Resource or Affinity Group

Women

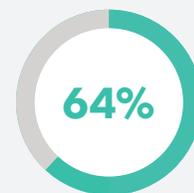

African American/Black

Hispanic Latino/a

Asian American

LGBTQ

Groups with less than 30% of firms saying they have an ERG for this group not shown.

Of Employee Resource or Affinity Groups within law firms, approximately 85% have their own budget. Leaders of these groups are typically volunteers, with less than half (43%) receiving billable hour credit for their leadership role. For leaders that do get billable hour credit, 64% get about the same amount of credit as pro bono work, while 29% get more credit than they would for pro bono work.

Neurodiversity in Law Firms

Neurodiversity refers to differences in brain functioning, including ADHD, dyslexia, apraxia, and autism-spectrum disorders. We are just beginning to track neurodiversity within the legal community, as are some law firms that participated in the DEI Framework this year.

15%

have a targeted recruiting strategy that includes neurodiverse individuals

8%

of firms have an employee resource or affinity group for neurodiverse individuals

5%

of firms include neurodiversity as part of their supplier diversity program

11%

include neurodiverse individuals as a group included when considering a diverse slate of candidate for management or leadership roles
